

ABOUT US

Heavy rigging projects require truckloads of tools - from the gantries to the forklifts to the chains and shackles. However, the most vital component of a successful project is the people. Not just any people but the right people. These people are the individuals that dedicate themselves to customer service and relentlessly honing their expertise.

Egenolf Industrial Group has the right people to safely, professionally and efficiently execute your next industrial rigging project. The right people ensure that each and every project is managed with the meticulous detail required. The right people combine to fully integrate multiple services for seamless industrial contracting. The right people understand the full scope of work for turnkey machinery relocations:

- Project Management
- General Industrial Contracting
- Fully Integrated Machinery Installation
- Turnkey Machinery Relocation

Egenolf Industrial Group. The right people. The right choice.
